

Stash that straightening iron.

► Lucite Heels

Clear shoes are ultrahot this season. Tons of designers did high-end versions, but it's easy to find affordable ones too. To avoid looking tarty, pair them with a knee-skimming skirt or cropped pants—nothing too short or tight.

Patent-leather and Lucite sandals, Nine West, $79, 800-999-1877

CALVIN KLEIN

◀ Big Hair

The foxiest lock look right now is serious volume. The key to this full effect: a generous spritzing of volumizing spray. Mist your roots while your hair is damp, then blow-dry. To add more oomph once your hair is dry, slightly tease your tresses at the crown of your head, then smooth down the top with a densely bristled brush.

What's Sexy This Second...

Jessica Simpson is a curvaceous carb eater.

Sexy vs Skanky

Nicole Kidman

Kelly Osbourne

Bright pink lips

Bright pink hair

Red-carpet shots

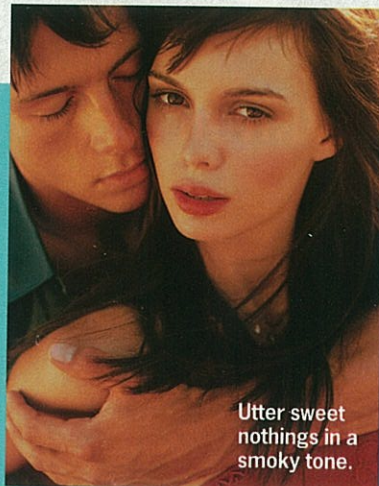

Mug shots

Carrying edible lip balm in your purse

Carrying edible underwear in your purse

► Being Confidently Curvy

The low-carb craze suffered a blow when Jessica Simpson complained that her boobs shrank two cup sizes on a bread-free diet, which she subsequently kicked to the curb. Right now, many celebs are embracing their curves. Both Jessica and Liv Tyler have been told to lose weight by industry people but say they prefer their voluptuous bods the way they are. Are these the first signs of an Atkins backlash?

Utter sweet nothings in a smoky tone.

A Sultry Bedroom Voice

Your vocal chords can be your secret weapon if you know how to work them. To sound super-sexy, just follow these tips from celebrity voice coach Bob Corff: "To get an irresistible bedroom voice, you have to first calm down and forget about your frenetic life for a minute," he says. Talk slowly, elongate the vowels in each word, and make sure your inflection goes down at the end of each sentence. Speak softly, but not so quietly that your guy has to strain to hear you.